May Dear Mr Nyes

"You will excuse me if I encroach on your valuates time long enough to gain some information about a matter over of success unless I do likewise. My nature is very sensitive and I don't think I can stand defeat since droring so prominently for so long a time in my district. I have exhausted my brains in trying to devise some means by which I can create excitement and catch the people by storm.

"It is impossible to find a phatform that is not arready filled, and I don't like to play second fielde to any man's lead. The questions I would ask are those:

"Do you think it the wise policy to and confidence, and know you will treat my questions as such.

"The other day as I was on the train to Macon, the editor and proprietor of our conly weakly pager was on the train to meanly out the distribution of the apprenched me first, and I want you to remember that fact. He told me that his wife a paper, him Smith, you will be surprised to notice how the public will be as clay in your hands. Grard with jealous care the good will of the paper. I used to put the good will of the paper. I used to put the good will and the dictionary and then pat the dictionary and the dictionary and the dictionary alone escaped my the said the more sorious. But he could not extertain the idea of parting with such put the rest of the paper, the good will and the dictionary alone escaped my the said to the paper, the good will and the dictionary alone escaped my listed and said a paper good will and the dictionary alone escaped my listed and write such pool good the mestry. This, in connection with also wile a feed to be considered a confidency and the paper. I well the desk. When the office was afterward the decker was a position opened to him the decker. When the good will of the paper, the good will and the dictionary alone escaped my list the desk. When the office was afterward the desk. When the office was afterward the such provided the such paper, the good will and the dictionary alone escaped my list and the dictionary alone es chierds and such a paying business without great concern.

"Itoongut this was my chance. Now, I have quite a song little sum—say $5,000—and can raise more on some property my wile owns. Do you really think I would be signt in maying his paper! I have mever been a particular numiter of the paper, but that is because they never gave me any pootes. He will sell, and after talang the thing ever I was given this inventory on a piece of paper. You can hatter tell wheether the price he make—

[Congright, 1992] The summer girl, after all, is very much the same everywhere. I found her at the Thousand Islands as at any of the other watering places I had visited. The only change I noticed was that perhaps her gowns were a trifle heavier and warmer than is usual for summer, and that she dressed her halr a trifle more elaborately.
